

On December 13, 2006 at NAB Little Creek, RDML (then Captain) Janice Hamby, Class of 1980, was presented with the 2006 UNC NROTC Alumni Association Distinguished Alumna Award.

Currently serving as the Director of Operations of the Naval Network Warfare Command, RDML Hamby has had a distinguished career in the computer and telecommunications field. She has made numerous deployments, including: Operation Uphold Democracy (Haiti, 1994) and Operation Iraqi Freedom (Baghdad, 2004) as well as had many ship and shore assignments and commands.

RDML Hamby holds a Bachelor's Degree from UNC, a Master of Science in Information Systems Management and a Masters of Business Administration from Boston University, and a Master of Arts in National Security and Strategic Studies from the US Naval War College where she graduated with distinction and was a Presidential Honor Graduate.

RDML Hamby's impressive career accomplishments and her current contributions to the US Naval Services made her a clear choice for the Distinguished Alumnus Award. With the technical nature and the reliance on computer networks and data transmission of the Navy and Marine Corps today, she is at the cutting edge of military innovation.
